

Weather Forecasts

You can listen to the weather report on the radio or on television. Most weather forecasts tell you what the weather will be like for the next five days. Listening to the weather forecast helps people decide what to wear when they go outside.

Weather forecasts can also save lives. Hurricane and tornado warnings, for example, allow people to leave an area to avoid danger.

Weather predictions are based on science and technology, but they are not perfect.