

Funerals Are Sad

Read Aloud Worksheet

Funerals are sad events.
They are a ceremony to honor people who have died.

Funerals

Some funerals are at a religious building. Others are at a rented hall. Smaller funerals are called graveside services and are held beside the person's grave.

Nowadays, many people are cremated and their remains are held in small urns or they are scattered. A "celebration of life" service is held before the remains are released.

Funerals are a way of honoring the people who have passed away. When you attend a funeral it shows respect.

It is a popular American tradition to wear black clothes to a funeral.