

Trick-Or-Treating

Read Aloud Worksheet

It's Halloween and many children are trick-or-treating in Mai's neighborhood.

Trick-or-Treating

Mai bought extra candy this year because last year she almost ran out. Plus, her husband likes to have candy in the house. He eats one piece every night.

Mai enjoys seeing the children dressed in their Halloween costumes. She compliments each child and their costume as she puts the candy in their bag or bucket.

The children are excited but well-behaved. They wait patiently for their piece of candy and they say thank you. Then they run to the next house.

October 31 is a fun day for both children and adults. Happy Halloween!
